

INSTRUCTIONS FOR DECIPHERING THE DESTINY CODES

©2017 DALE M. SIDES

It is important to discover your God-given destiny because it reveals your potential character, and this will challenge you into more worthy endeavors. The locations of the Sun, Moon, and planets within your birth sky show how God (through His law of observation from quantum physics) observed you at the time He created you. The encoded messages out of your birth sky, lined up with scriptural truths, will show how He saw your true potential.

These tables are based upon accurate astronomy, not inaccurate astrological tables. Astrological tables are archaic since they were codified in 135 BC and the Earth has precessed 31.9 degrees since their writing. As far as we know, these are the only accurate tables in existence and, as such, are quite valuable.

Do not allow the bad reputation of occult astrology to keep you away from these truths—remember that every good lie has a little truth in it. The locations of the Sun, Moon, and planets on your birthdate are significant, because they have laid out a revelation of your destiny for you to discover. So, please approach your study of these codes seriously and prayerfully with the goal of deciphering and interpreting them correctly.

Reading the Tables

The Sun's location is absolute. The chart on page 4 of these instructions shows the dates it abides in each constellation. Those most likely will not agree with your horoscope sign, since they are based upon accurate astronomy that factors in the Earth's precession.

When reading the destiny tables, take note that the Moon and the planets' locations are based upon the first day of each month. (The Moon's location will be very accurate but you will need to calculate it correctly.) Concerning the planets, it is possible for one to move into another constellation during the month, so the farther into the month you were born, the more the planet will have moved, increasing the possibility of it moving into another constellation at some point. However, if the constellation's location is the same for the months preceding and succeeding your birth month, then you will know that it did not change constellations. For accurate locations of all the planets, go to <http://Astronomy.LMCI.org> to find out absolute locations and receive more detailed descriptions than can be provided in these tables.

Tips for reading. The inner planets of Mercury and Venus are closer to the Sun, so they change constellations more rapidly than other planets. Mercury moves the fastest, but because of its frequent retrograde motion, it is difficult to pattern—except that it is never more than two constellations away from the Sun. Venus changes constellations almost every month; Mars stays in the same constellation about two months; Jupiter remains in the same constellation for approximately one year; and Saturn stays in the same constellation for a little over two years. (Uranus, Neptune, and Pluto are not considered in these tables because they cannot be seen with the naked eye.)

Also, if you look at consecutive months, you will see that occasionally, a planet seems to back up a constellation and go the opposite way. This is known as a retrograde; and it is one of the great secrets that the ancient magi used when interpreting celestial messages. Retrogrades are an optical illusion that occurs when a faster moving object overtakes a slower one and makes the slower object appear to briefly move backwards. When this happens in the motion of planets, it makes the planet appear to “draw” a circle or an ellipse. Retrogrades are important to consider when deciphering celestial messages, because they can indicate something significant.

NOTE: Although these tables can be used at any time, they were specifically designed for an unforeseen time when there may be a power outage or a computer failure. Because they can be printed out into a hard-copy format, they have been simplified to spare ink and paper. Permission is granted to print out these tables for personal use, but permission is not granted to reproduce them in mass or for profit.

How to Decipher the Meaning

Your destiny code is deciphered by looking at the constellational background behind each planet on the day of your birth. Each planet within your birth sky communicates an action that can contribute to building your whole character. Since the message of these actions were preserved in the Hebrew and Arabic names, mythology and astrology have not tainted their true meanings. The Planet Chart on page 8 provides the planet name according to common Roman derivation; then the Hebrew name; and, lastly, the actions it communicates in order to form your potential destiny.

The constellation the celestial body was in front of, or was passing through, tells the characteristic (of the perfect person) and personality attributes you innately have. These reveal how the Creator, or the Divine Observer, saw you on the day of your creation.

As a reminder, these deductions are based upon the Law of Observation in Quantum Physics. God, your Creator, observed you in order for you to manifest as a created person. These codes reveal how He saw you. This is a not a lightweight subject matter.

As you look at the seven actions that the planets and Sun and Moon tell you to take, note that “7,” according to scriptural numerics, means “perfect and complete.” These seven actions will comprise your life’s deepest virtues and have an impact on how people will know and identify you. The goal of this celestial blueprint is to foretell the perfect (complete) person you were designed to be, so that you can then develop it in your character.

As an example, if you look back to your high school biology class days, you may recall that your textbook had acetate overlays of the different body systems, like the circulatory system or the digestive system. The bottom picture was the skeleton and then the acetate overlays were flipped one by one until all the systems were in place, and you could see the complete person.

Reading your destiny code is similar to this. The bottom (foundation) picture would be the constellations, and the acetate overlays would be each planet, the Sun, and the Moon—with each layer revealing separate parts of the whole character. Each celestial body has its own meaning, and when you put them all together, you will be able to see how God sees (and foresaw) you—all operated through the law of observation from quantum physics. As you decipher your destiny code, you will discover which portions of The Elect of God you have been pre-observed to become; and in the process, you will be able to identify and discover the enigma of the heavens, the “Mystery Man.”

The Message of the Sun, Moon, and Planets

The Sun. The location of the Sun is accurate according to astronomy and not astrological tables. As stated earlier, these dates will most likely not agree with the sign of your horoscope. The Sun reveals the constellational background of your birth sky; therefore, it gives you the most dominate portrayal of your divine destiny—above any other celestial body. Its Hebrew name, Chammah, means “heat, sun;”¹ thus, it reveals your most fervent virtue and character.

If your birth sky was located on the boundary of a constellation or your birthdate is a day or so before or after the constellational boundary, you will want to look at the characteristics of the adjacent constellation also.

NOTE: There is one point where we differ from the following table. For practical reasons in deciphering your destiny codes, we have combined the days of Scorpius and Ophiuchus. This maintains the traditional number of constellations in the zodiac as twelve.

Constellation	Dates	Number of Days
Sagittarius	Dec 18–Jan 18	32
Capricornus	Jan 19–Feb 15	28
Aquarius	Feb 16–Mar 11	24
Pisces	Mar 12–Apr 18	38

The Moon. The Moon is often the second-brightest light in the heavens and the most varying one; therefore, it shows the necessary characteristic of faithfulness. Its message is quite important within your destiny profile. The Moon moves 12 degrees each day, and its exact location must be calculated to accurately determine its meaning. To find the Moon's location, follow the steps listed below.

1. Go to the code listing for the Moon and find the constellation and degree number for the year and month. The degree number is the location of the Moon on the first day of that month. (Note: the Destiny Codes begin on page 10.)
2. Multiply the number of the day of the month you were born times 12 degrees.
3. Add this number of degrees to the degree number on the first day of the month.
4. If the number is greater than 360, subtract 360 from it, and the final number will be the degrees on the circle.

5. If it is less than 360, you can find its location in the following table. This will be the constellation where the Moon is located in your birth sky.

TABLE OF DEGREES
MAJOR CONSTELLATIONS

Virgo: 0–45	Capricorn: 126–152	Taurus: 238–274
Libra: 46–68	Aquarius: 153–176	Gemini: 275–304
Scorpio: 69–93	Pisces: 177–213	Cancer: 305–325
Sagittarius: 94–125	Aries: 214–237	Leo: 326–360

For example, if you were born on September 9, 1949, go to the Moon's location in the destiny code. On the first day of that month, the Moon was in Sagittarius at 103 degrees. Multiply 12 degrees by the number of days (9) to equal 108 degrees. Add 109 (the number of degrees it has moved) to 103 (where it began) to equal 212. The 212 degree is allotted within the constellation of Pisces. So Pisces would be the constellation the Moon was in, according to your destiny code.

The Planets. Since all of the planets are constantly moving, the tables in the destiny code are not always 100% accurate. The locations of the planets shown in the table is where they were on day 1 of each month, so the farther your birthdate is from day 1 of your birth month, the more the planet will have moved. So, if your birthdate is closer to the end of the month, the next month will be more likely to have the accurate location. It appears that some planets move slower than others, but in reality, it is their distance from the Sun that determines how long the revolution takes; and, correspondingly, the celestial body appears to stay in a particular spot for a longer duration. More research is available at <http://lmci.org/showitems.cfm?CategoryID=19> on the major celestial bodies within our solar system.

CHARACTERISTICS REVEALED BY THE PLANETS IN OUR SOLAR SYSTEM

- Mercury—the characteristic that Mercury reveals is “the messenger.” It portrays the message you are to speak and champion. Its Hebrew name is Kova Chammah, the Sun's messenger. It is often in the same (or close to it) constellation as the Sun and is never more than two constellations away from it. The particular characteristic of the constellation in which Mercury was abiding during your birth shows you how to speak and what message you are called to communicate. Mercury moves about one constellation per month; however, its retrogrades are so frequent, it is difficult to pattern exactly month by month. Mercury is all about delivering a message in light of the Sun.
- Venus—the characteristic that Venus reveals is your passion and love. The Hebrew name Nogah means bright, beautiful, and splendid. Since it is the closest planet to the Earth, it is the brightest in the night sky, especially in the morning; hence, it is known as “the bright and morning star.” Venus is an inner planet and moves rapidly, usually one constellation per month. It is also known as “the evening star,” since it is quite visible and bright in either the twilight hours or the early morning hours. Venus is all about your passion and love.

- Mars—the characteristic Mars reveals is your fervor and commitment to whatever its constellation is speaking. Your zealous commitment to your message will be so strong that you are willing to fight for it. Mars was named after the mythological god of war; and its Hebrew name, Madim, means “red,” indicating the shedding of blood in warfare. It can also mean redemption and the willingness to shed blood for a cause. Mars stays in the same constellation for about two months before moving to the next one. Mars is all about your fervor and commitment and what you are willing to fight for.
- Ceres—Ceres reveals a hidden truth in your life. This is an area of your life that will flourish with grace and humility.² Ceres is the largest planetoid in the asteroid belt between Mars and Jupiter, is fifth in order from the Sun, and it inhabits the prior location of Planet X. It carries the message of a hidden virtue waiting to be discovered—a mystery that can only be discovered through accurate astronomy, not occult astrology.
- Jupiter—Jupiter reveals leadership characteristics, according to the constellation it was in at the time of your birth. Named for the king god of Roman mythology, Jupiter’s Hebrew name Tsedeq means “king of righteousness.” Jupiter is the largest of all the planets and is most likely the Messiah’s star of Matthew 2 that the wise men followed to find him as a young child. It appears to move slowly because of its distance from the Sun and, therefore, changes constellations only about once a year. Jupiter is all about showing you where your leadership is at its best—where you are “big” in character.
- Saturn—Saturn carries the characteristic of perfection (completion) or lacking nothing. Its Hebrew name is Shabbati, which means “seven;” thus named for being the seventh planet from the Sun. Biblically speaking, the number “7” symbolizes completion and maturity or perfect and lacking nothing. This indicates growth into total maturity, resulting in service. Saturn’s multiple rings are indicative of all of your gifts as they are utilized in the beauty of your service. Saturn is all about maturing into a life of serving others, the idealistic character of The Elect One.

As the last planet, Saturn wraps up the whole message of the heavens in an array of your gifts being used to serve others. The point of having gifts is to develop them into the highest of all character traits—service. The number 70 represents a complete generation and is a great indicator of where all of your abilities will be manifested and used in the service of others by the characteristics of the constellation it was abiding in at the time of your birth.

As the last visible planet with the naked eye, Saturn completes your destiny profile. The fact that Saturn abides in a constellation for approximately two years before moving to the next one shows the aspect of time spent on developing your abilities culminating in the revelation of serving others and not just yourself.

As you explore your birth date in the following Destiny Codes, remember that each overlay you discover adds another layer to the picture you started with, until you are the complete and perfect person God observed when He created you.

The meanings and characteristics of these constellations were discovered through research—most significantly, the ancient names of the stars, from various languages and cultures, located within each of their boundaries. The commonalities found in these languages and cultures show that these are not arbitrary, whimsical, or personal interpretations. “Decans” are three accompanying modifiers, or smaller constellations, that each major constellation has within its vicinity. Their meanings also contribute to these aspects in the major constellation that they accompany. The heavenly story line of the coming of God’s Elect and the frequency and reliability of the figures drawn around the constellations, from both ancient and contemporary astronomy, were also included within the research.

The deciphering of destiny codes is completely unrelated to the so-called practice of astrology, or fortune telling. These are definitive, personality characteristics of virtue and destiny that each one of our birth skies reveals, according to the research of the star names, the Christological meanings of the constellations, and the movement and symbolic meanings of the planets, the Sun, and the Moon.

Constellations

The following bullet list is of the major constellations with their meanings and characteristics. Some of these are somewhat related, while others are from a different stream of insight—meaning some could be spiritual characteristics, or business, or personal, or professional; however, all are exhortations of aspiration and not condemnation. Make sure you view them as positives and not as areas you fail in. If they are written into your birth sky, they are attainable for you. Also, when you read these characteristics, choose the one that most applies to you and focus on that one. (There is a constellation chart with a briefer list of these same attributes on the page 9 for a quicker reference.)

- Virgo—the virgin. Initiator, kingdom builder, non-conformist, usually an outside-of-the-nine-dots thinker, gifted
- Libra—the scales. Sacrificial, redemptive for others, compassionate, honest, and just
- Scorpio—the struggler. Victorious, willing-to-be wounded for a cause, aggressive, trend changer, mighty warrior

- Sagittarius—the overcomer. Never-say-die, come-from-behind overcomer, cunning warrior
- Capricorn—the sacrificial overcomer. Selfless, sacrificial, encourager, friend of all, positive
- Aquarius—the blessing giver. Gifted, gracious, generous, spiritual
- Pisces—the binder of evil. Tenacious, contender against evil, personable
- Aries—the ruler. Sacrificial leader, noble, regal, dominator of evil
- Taurus—the sacrificial bull. Determined, focused, strong-willed, bold, and aggressive
- Gemini—the twins. Well balanced, serving ruler, ambassadorial, personable to all, passionate
- Cancer—the corral. Caring, protective, pastoral, encourager
- Leo—the bold lion. Bold, courageous, out-spoken, leader

Important Note: According to the laws of celestial interpretation, the more specific the location of the Sun, Moon, and planets within the constellation, the more specific the interpretation will be. To achieve the most exact location of each celestial body, consult an accurate astronomy program, such as <http://Astronomy.LMCI.org> which NASA has commended for its accuracy and innovation. Also, stellarium.org is a free astronomy program that accurately reveals the locations of the celestial bodies.

NOTES

1. Definition of the Hebrew word chammah, Bible Hub, accessed September 21, 2017, <http://biblehub.com/hebrew/2535.htm>.
2. Just as Ceres' history and meaning are mysterious, so is its message for you. It contains a deep secret that will challenge you to look deeper within yourself. It often reveals areas in your life that you are blind to or have trouble recognizing (such as pride). Pray for God's grace to reveal it to you and to give you the strength to overcome it.
